Why This Screening Matters

"As the grandchild of Holocaust survivors, I feel a deep responsibility to honor the stories of contemporary Jewish survivors of terrorism," said [Your Name], organizer of the screening. "This film is a testament to their courage and an essential reminder of the resilience of the human spirit."

[Alternate quote option for motivation:]

"As a Christian supporter of Israel, I'm alarmed by the rising levels of antisemitism on our campus," said [Your Name]. "This film sheds light on the truth of what happened on October 7th, and I believe it will inspire others to stand against hatred."

[Alternate quote option for motivation:]

"Our campus has become a hotbed for anti-Jewish hate rallies. I believe that if more students could see and understand what Hamas did to innocent people on October 7th, it could change hearts and improve the climate here," said [Your Name], a student organizer of the event.

About the Film

"SATURDAY October 7th" shares the harrowing stories of survivors from diverse walks of life—an elementary school teacher, a farmer and family man, a single mother, a chef, a new immigrant with dwarfism, a singer with dreams of stardom, and a young woman looking forward to a night of dancing under the stars. They lived peacefully until their paradise was turned into a nightmare.
